1. POLICY STATEMENT

1.1. GENERAL

This Annex is supplemental to the main overarching Summary Order Execution Policy and sets out some of the more specific factors that are taken into consideration when either executing orders in fixed income related exchange traded products directly on venues or where such orders are transmitted to other firms (i.e. brokers) for execution on venues.

Where orders are placed with brokers and that entity therefore executes orders “on a client’s (Columbia Threadneedle’s) behalf”, that entity will be judged to be performing a service whereby they either:

- Execute an order by dealing as agent;
- Execute an order by dealing as risk-less principal on behalf of a client (or as matched principal as the case may be); and
- “Work” an order on a client’s behalf.

In such instances described above, Columbia Threadneedle will be owed a duty of best execution by the Broker entity.

ETD ORDERS

1.2. ORDER EXECUTION

We will take all reasonable steps to obtain the best possible result for our clients (as defined in MiFID) subject to a number of factors described below. Columbia Threadneedle seeks to follow a consistent approach to order execution across different instrument types where appropriate. This supplementary policy document therefore sets out a common approach to execution across the following asset classes and where the consideration of execution factors is also applied consistently:

- Exchange Traded Derivative (ETD) instruments

1.3. BEST EXECUTION FACTORS

The following factors are taken into account when executing a client order:

- Price;
- Size;
- Likelihood of execution and settlement; and
- Any other consideration relevant to a particular order.

1.4. BEST EXECUTION CRITERIA

Based on our experience and judgement and using any relevant market information available at the time of a particular trade, we will determine the relative importance of the above-mentioned factors when considering the use of an execution venue.

1.5. EXECUTION VENUES

A decision is made to use an execution venue or trade by telephone based on the asset class and size of the trade. The following factors are taken into consideration in the evaluation of these venues:

- Ability of execution venue to provide best price
- All direct and indirect costs of trading & settlement
- The applicability of the execution venue for different sizes of order
- Likelihood of execution
- Likely speed of execution
- Depth of liquidity
- Counterparty Credit Risk
- Settlement & straight through processing (STP) arrangements
- Applicability to different types of order
- Other factors relating to this particular asset class

The decision to use which venue or entity is dependent upon the various factors described above and, importantly, whether execution is undertaken directly on a venue by Columbia Threadneedle or transmitted to brokers to execute the trades.

Our Best Execution Policy includes, for each Financial Instrument in which we execute orders on your behalf, as detailed in each specific asset class annex, those venues that we place significant reliance on to enable us to obtain Best Execution on a consistent basis. Those possible execution venues include, as appropriate for each product: regulated markets, multilateral trading facilities, organised trading facilities, systematic internalisers, market makers, and other liquidity providers.

We reserve the right to use other execution venues that are not listed in this policy, where we deem appropriate in accordance with this Policy and may add or remove any execution venues from this list without notice.

Columbia Threadneedle's order execution process takes into consideration the aforementioned execution factors. Depending upon those factors and the type of instrument being executed, Columbia Threadneedle may route its order via electronic trading platforms (MTFs, OTFs and other trading and information platforms). Alternatively, the order may be executed directly with a broker from its approved broker and counterparty list. To the extent that it is relevant to the instrument being traded, a trading agreement may also need to be in place between the relevant parties. This list of execution venues is included in Appendix 2 of the Summary Order Execution Policy.

1.6. MONITORING

We regularly monitor the effectiveness of our execution arrangements and policy and assess the efficiency of our Execution Venues using a combination of internal and external analysis. The approach uses both ex-ante and ex-post forms of process review and monitoring.

In addition, by 30 April each year, Columbia Threadneedle will publish annually on its website a summary of the volumes executed for each instrument class, showing the Top 5 venues. This can be found under the 'Contact' section of the site.

1.7. REVIEW

Columbia Threadneedle will review its execution policy and procedures on at least an annual basis. Details of material changes to this Policy will be made available to clients. This policy is available on the Columbia Threadneedle website under the heading 'Legal Documents' within the Literature section.

1.8. GENERAL TERMS OF ORDER HANDLING

As we seek to enhance our investment capabilities and services to our clients, we may engage certain of our non-U.K. affiliated companies, of the Ameriprise Financial Inc., Group, around the world to provide dealing services on behalf of the clients of Columbia Threadneedle. We believe that harnessing the collective expertise of Columbia Threadneedle and its affiliates will benefit our clients. By utilising the execution skills and resources of different dealing desks around the world (notably UK, US and Singapore), we are able to be active and engaged in each of the live local markets with a real-time presence in markets around the globe. This global execution model adds value to the portfolio management teams and ultimately our clients.

We are required under MiFID to execute client orders in a prompt and fair manner. We will execute aggregated orders sequentially in accordance with the time of their receipt unless otherwise instructed by the client, the interests of the client require otherwise, or the specifics of the order and the current market conditions make this impracticable. This may involve merging client orders together with those of other Columbia Threadneedle clients and may also include aggregated orders from its affiliates. Columbia Threadneedle believes that overall the effect of aggregation should generally be of benefit to clients, although it remains possible that on occasions, this may work to its disadvantage in relation to a particular order. For example, this may include circumstances whereby trades not aggregated with those of other clients (e.g. because of specific client instruction to execute otherwise) may be executed at different times via a different venue, receive a different price, which may or may not be a more favourable price to those that are aggregated with other clients.

1.9. SPECIFIC CLIENT INSTRUCTIONS

When a client gives Columbia Threadneedle a specific instruction as to the execution of an order, then that order will generally be executed in accordance with those specific instructions. Clients should therefore be aware that providing specific instructions will override Columbia Threadneedle's obligations to execute client orders in accordance with this Policy.

Similarly, if a client gives a specific instruction for an "Advisory Fund" or an "Advised Execution" fund, this instruction may prevent us from obtaining the best possible result in accordance with our Policy.
